To whom it may concern

This letter provides a reference to Amandeep Singh, a fourth year student on the DT282 Computer Science degree (International) at Dublin Institute of Technology. As part of this degree programme Amandeep is required to do a full-year computer science project, and I have the pleasure to be his supervisor on this project. Amandeep has chosen to work on a project that assists dyslexic children with maths difficulties by providing them with an endless runner game that presents maths questions along the running path. He has chosen to conduct his final year project following the scrum methodology, where I act as his scrum master. Amandeep has always conducted these meeting in a respectful manner, he is good at timekeeping and has shown clear progress throughout the project. He is the driver of his project. He has excellent interpersonal skills and is clearly committed to the task. He is a hard worker and gives his full effort and attention to every task. I believe that Amandeep will bring significant value to any company and will integrate easily in any team.

Please do not hesitate to contact me should you have any further questions. You can either email me at bianca.phelan@dit.ie or call me on my office phone at 01 402 4767.

Sincerely,
